

Anti-dumping duty levied on 93 Chinese products: Minister

New Delhi, India has imposed anti-dumping duties on 93 products imported from China, Parliament was informed on Wednesday.

"Anti-dumping duty is imposed on 93 products imported from China," Commerce Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told the Rajya Sabha in a written reply.

These products include chemicals, machinery, steel and other metals, fibres, yarn, rubber, plastic, electrical items, and electronics and consumer goods.

She said 40 cases related to imports from China have been initiated by the Directorate General of Anti-Dumping and Allied Duties (DGAD).

Sitharaman told the Lok Sabha last month that the government was concerned about the country's growing trade deficit with China and was making efforts to realise greater access for Indian goods and services in the Chinese market.

"Trade deficit with China is a matter of concern. We are discussing the issue with China for greater access for Indian products and services in the Chinese market," she said. She said with China topping the list of 25 countries with which India has trade deficit in the last three years, even Prime Minister Narendra Modi had raised the issue with the Chinese authorities at the highest level.

India's trade deficit with China in 2016-17 had declined slightly to $51.08 billion, from $52.69 billion in 2015-16. It was $48.48 billion in 2014-15.

Sitharaman had earlier told Parliament that the increasing trade deficit with China could be attributed primarily to the fact that Chinese exports to India rely strongly on manufactured items to meet the demand of fast-expanding sectors like telecom and power.

She had also spoken of the difficulties faced by Indian firms in accessing the Chinese market, particularly by those in the IT and pharmaceuticals sectors.

New WhatsApp Beta version shows UPI payment feature

San Francisco/New Delhi,

WhatsApp will soon facilitate instant money transfer via the Unified Payments Interface (UPI) transaction system, shows a new Beta update by the Facebook-owned mobile messaging platform. According to a blog website WABetaInfo on Wednesday, WhatsApp was finally giving shape to its plans towards bank-to-bank transfer using the UPI system. In the new version '2.17.295' through the Google Play Beta Programme, it says: "WhatsApp Payments: the immediate bank-to-bank transfer with UPI." The official "WhatsApp Payments" section for Android is still under development. "In order to use WhatsApp Payments, you will have to accept the WhatsApp Payments and Bank Terms and Privacy Policy," the blog added. Launched by the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) and regulated by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), UPI facilitates the instant fund transfer between two bank accounts on the mobile platform. With over 200 million monthly active users (MAUs), WhatsApp has been in the news for working towards a UPI-based interface in its platform. According to media reports, WhatsApp is already in talks with the NPCI and a few banks to facilitate financial transactions via UPI. Some mobile messaging platforms like WeChat and Hike Messenger already support UPI-based payment services. The NPCI announced in July that UPI has crossed the 10 million transaction mark last in June 2017, registering a 10-fold increase in 11 months from one million UPI transactions in August 2016.

"Transactions on UPI are growing exponentially due to increased acceptance among member-banks, merchants and consumers. Plus, the UPI-powered Bharat Interface for Money (BHIM) has also been a significant contributor," NPCI Managing Director and CEO A.P. Hota had said.

The firm said the volume of UPI transactions was at 10.35 million in June, up from 9.36 million in May and 7.20 million in April.

The UPI transaction system was launched in August 2016 with 21 banks and was now offered by around 50 banks. Hota said around 22 per cent transactions are merchant-based which is also growing rapidly.

Facebook combines AI, human review process to curb fake news

San Francisco,

In yet another attempt to curb the spread of fake news on its platform, Facebook on Thursday announced that it has expanded its human review process to identify and verify 'cloaking'.

'Cloaked' destination pages, which frequently include diet pills, pornography and muscle building scams, create negative and disruptive experiences for people, the company noted.

The social media giant is now using a combination of human review and Artificial Intelligence (AI) to find and remove 'cloaked' advertisements and posts in its news feeds. "Some of the worst offenders use a technique known as 'cloaking' to circumvent Facebook's review processes and show content to people that violates Facebook's Community Standards and Advertising Policies," said Rob Leathern, Product Management Director and Bobbie Chang, Software Engineer, in a blog post. Thousands of 'clocking' offenders have been removed from Facebook's platform and their economic incentives were disrupted in the past few months.

Recently, to cut down on low-quality content and fake news in News Feed, Facebook updated its algorithm again to remove such content from its platform.

After receiving positive feedback on how 'Related Articles' helped people determine whether the news they are reading is misleading or false, Facebook has also rolled out the feature more broadly.

In a blog post, Facebook said it will start using updated machine learning to detect more potential hoaxes to send to third-party fact checkers.
